Newsletter No.186

Hi everyone,

We all know that the drought has arrived to our region. Majority of farmers are now entering survival mode, trying to re-coupe any return (if possible) from their winter cropping program. In summary, 2018 has turned into a shocker of a year. Summer cropping activity will be very restricted with zero water allocation and most carry over water having been used on winter cereal crops.

If the weather forecast is correct with zero rain and a few more frosts over the next 2 weeks, then we would be better to bypass any significant rain events until March 2019. Rain in the hills and catchment would be valuable otherwise from mid October we will just be growing summertime noxious vegetation.

What happens to our business and towns during a drought? They are all placed under extra burden. It will be managing the loss to minimise our financial loss each day, each week, each month. We hope that people will understand how important any business/purchases will be over the coming months—please consider your local businesses when making a purchase. As a rule, any business that closes locally would be very unlikely to ever re-open. Local businesses need to be competitive—we need to be helpful with quality products and good advice. We need to be cost effective for our customers to use us—and if we are not? Then please tell us so we can make changes to address our issues and problems. As a community and as a region we need to help each other.

Cheers and Good Health—John P Lane (Managing Director)
