Newsletter No.199

Welcome to Everyone,

Life is always interesting—firstly it does not rain very much during a drought. This has been, so far, the driest Spring that I can recall. All those forefathers of this region that endured so much hardship in our pioneering history that fought so hard to make this region drought tolerant must be turning in their graves to see how the bureaucrats have turned water into a tradable, speculative commodity.

The very time when some water would have been of the most benefit, not just for the local producers but for Australia as a whole, there is no water for this region. So who will end up suffering the most out of this mismanagement? The local towns people, the communities, the ordinary Australian who by no fault of their own find themselves living in this great region.

The future? Yes, there will always be a future. We will have to fight and endure a lot more hardship before a better future is forged. The water that this region has used in the past belongs to all of Australia. It's what all of Australia wants, to see that water supporting that will bring change.

Remember the river system is the Murray Darling, two rivers that join into one. Some how, greed has taken over and the 'Big Boys' have been allowed to enter water trading and perhaps water diversion. It is called the Murray -Darling, yet the Darling appears to now flow zero water.

This long slog of Summer is yet to arrive—we are still to be truly tested. Remember to help each other, to be engaged, keep active. Until next edition...

Cheers and Good Health—John P Lane (Managing Director)
